Mt. Fuji, Deluxe Cultural Wonders of Hong Kong & Japan, p. 3
Greetings Fellow AAA Travelers

“Travel” can be interpreted differently from person to person. To me, travel means opening up to a world unfamiliar to you and immersing yourself in new places, ideas, and cultures. When we travel, we become more independent and more resourceful. You learn to take on new challenges with excitement and become more compassionate and aware of those around you and their situations.

Much like our everyday lives, when we travel, it’s easy to get drawn back to destinations that we have visited previously, as it is familiar to us. I encourage you step outside your comfort zone and try something completely different. Here’s something to consider.

In this issue, we are highlighting our travel partner, Avanti Destinations, who is a big proponent of traveling year round. They have developed a new product called GO365 which includes a wide variety of customizable itineraries that highlight the benefits of traveling to popular destinations during off-peak times. Whether you’re interested in wintry adventures or sunny beach escapes, Avanti’s global offerings make any day the right time to travel.

If you’re looking for inspiration for your next adventure, I encourage you to join us at a AAA Service Center event near you! For a full listing of AAA Oregon/Idaho events, please visit www.aaa.com/events.

So what are you waiting for? Go travel!

I recently went on an amazing vacation to Maui. The island itself is breathtaking: lush and vibrant tropical plants scale the hills and crystal clear blue waters rush up to meet the miles and miles of sandy beaches. When traveling in Maui, you must visit Frida’s Fish house in Lahaina. The food was divine and service was impeccable. Request a table outside, so you can soak up the sun and enjoy your meal with an incredible view! Helpful hint: don’t forget to apply your sunscreen, even when the sun isn’t out.

When traveling with larger families, it’s best to think about things that will make your lodging easier and more pleasant. Things like complimentary breakfast served by the hotel, a pool for the kids, and multi-room suites to give family members some downtime or a quiet room for little ones to nap.

When planning activities for everyone to enjoy, I recommend looking to the youngest and oldest family members to see if the activity is something everyone is able to do. Also remember that you can plan activities that only include the adults, such as a nice dinner out while the children are in a children’s program.

Adding in grandparents, aunts, uncles and cousins to a family vacation can be a wonderful way to create moments and memories that will be remembered for a lifetime.

Family Vacations Start
With A Good Plan

Getting relatives together for a family vacation can be a wonderful experience but it may seem a little daunting. With some help from a AAA Travel Professional and a little advanced planning, you and your family are sure to enjoy a seamless and memorable experience!

When discussing potential destinations for your family trip with your Travel Professional, remember, there are as many possibilities as there are family members. Here are some criteria to consider:

Convenience
Select a location near a major airport so it is easily accessible and offers service from a variety of airlines.

Activities
Choose an area that offers sightseeing and lots of activities. There may be family members who will want to extend their vacation and take side trips to local attractions.

Price
Exotic locations may be nice but are not practical for a wide range of budgets, ages and interests. Choose an area that will give you a price most families can afford. Cruise ships and resorts are popular for family vacations because of their all-inclusive pricing packages that include meals, activities and shows. Baby-sitting is often available.

Preferences
Theme parks, like Disneyland, can be a wonderful location for a family vacation. So can a cruise to Alaska, a resort in the mountains, or a big hotel in a major metropolitan area. Developing a consensus among relatives will help broaden participation.

When picking a date, consider that families with school-age children may find it easier to attend a vacation in the summer or around a long holiday weekend. Depending on the activities planned, choose the time of year with appropriate weather. Your AAA Travel Professional can also provide you with information on when a destination is less crowded and whether off-season discounts are available.

For assistance planning your next family vacation, visit your local AAA Service Center. Our Travel Professionals can provide you with information on locations, accommodations, transportation, group discounts, and added benefits for you and your whole family to enjoy!
I recently had the opportunity to experience one of my bucket list destinations, Croatia, at the end of a week-long tour of the Balkans. I was able to explore Dubrovnik, Croatia, which is an amazing place located right on the beautiful blue waters of the Adriatic Sea. I enjoyed learning the history of the area, walking the old city walls, and heading out into the sparkling waters by ferry over to nearby island, Lokrum, for a stroll and a coffee.

A highlight of my visit was eating a delicious dinner at a local restaurant within old town and enjoying magnificent views of the water below. When I go back to Croatia one day, I will take a sailing trip or explore one of the many national parks of the country and delve further into the heart of Croatia.

I had the great pleasure of cruising on the Rhine River this summer with AmaWaterways. I am an avid traveler, and in my experience, there is not an easier or more relaxing vacation than a river cruise in Europe. All of the details are worked out for you with no packing and unpacking in between cities. Being able to see multiple countries is effortless and it's almost as if the world comes to you. I would highly recommend it, as well as AmaWaterways. Their customer service, dining experiences, shore excursion options and amenities are second to none.

The Big Apple is one of my favorite places to visit! From the lights, glamour, Broadway shows, and (my favorite) the food, it’s no wonder that New York is one of the most popular travel destinations in the world. New York is a 24-hour energetic city that offers something for everyone, night and day. There is so much to do and not enough time - no matter how long you plan to stay. Check out some of the highlights: tour the Statue of Liberty and Empire State Building, see a live show, visit Rockefeller Center, explore Time Square, and don’t forget to enjoy the pizza!

Travel Safe

By Anne McAlpin

You don’t want to worry about personal security when you’re traveling, but it’s hard to avoid. Few things ruin a trip quite like having your money and ID lost or stolen. But how do you avoid letting security concerns overwhelm your enjoyment of your trip? Here’s some advice from years of travel experience.

1. If the loss of an item would ruin your trip (like your passport or credit card) it should be kept in a security wallet. The two most popular styles are the neck wallet and the money belt, both worn under your clothes and only accessed when you’re in a secure location. I recommend keeping a small amount of money ($50) in your handbag or pocket for minor expenses throughout the day (like gelato) but large sums or cards stay undercover in this security wallet.

2. Invest in a cross body bag. Again – your passport, credit card and the bulk of your cash should stay in your security wallet, but that still leaves your phone/camera, walking cash, guidebook and sunglasses in your day bag, and you don’t want to lose those either. The easiest bag to keep an eye on is a cross-body bag carried in front of you.

3. Protect your data. I always recommend a security wallet that protects your items with RFID blocking fabric so you can’t be “electronically pick-pocked.” RFID payment technology was designed to add convenience to everyday life, but it can also offer a way for thieves to obtain your data via scanner without ever reaching into your bag.

Features to look for in a security wallet:
• RFID blocking technology
• Moisture wicking, breathable fabric
• Soft, elastic waistband or adjustable neck strap
• At least one zippered pocket for organization

Last year I took a wonderful trip to Nicaragua and found it to be truly a country of culture, from music to art to cuisine. I found that Central America offers the most amazing ceviche and fresh-squeezed tropical fruit juice, which perfectly complement the backdrop of lush plants and volcanoes and added so much to my overall experience. The unique local dishes tell a story and help to really connect you to the destination you are visiting.

Last fall, I was lucky to experience all the glory that is the Grand Canyon in Arizona. From my first glimpse of the Canyon at Mather Point to the quiet peacefulness of the sunset, I was left speechless. I took the train to the Canyon and the shuttle system in the Park was easy to navigate. Transportation was a breeze and I never felt at a loss of how to reach all the spectacular viewpoints. I may have left the Canyon but it will always be in my heart.

Royal Caribbean International believes the best vacations come without limitations. That’s why they’re committed to providing accessible cruise vacation experiences to their guests with disabilities and special needs by outfitting their ships with a wide variety of features designed to give access to all.

ARRIVAL AND DEPARTURE
Royal Caribbean can arrange for accessible transportation to transfer guests between the airport and the pier, offered at no extra charge to air/sea guests or those who have purchased cruise-only transfers. Guests in wheelchairs or with mobility disabilities can also request boarding and departure assistance, and wheelchair assistance for boarding is available from the terminal check-in to the ship. Be sure to request these services through your AAA Travel Agent in advance.

ROOM ACCESSIBILITY
Royal Caribbean’s accessible staterooms are designed for guests with mobility disabilities and other disabilities. Accessible staterooms are spacious, ranging from 159 to 298 square feet, and offer a five-foot turning radius in sleeping areas, bathrooms, and sitting areas for easy maneuverability, allowing you to live comfortably on your trip.

SHORE EXCURSIONS
You can also immerse yourself in Royal Caribbean’s destinations with Accessible Shore Excursions, which are designed to accommodate scooters, wheelchairs, walkers and more. You’ll experience the authentic culture of the visited ports, and will be provided with comfortable, accessible transportation and knowledgeable, local independent experts.

Going well beyond a quick drive around an island, small group tours also provide in-depth vacation experiences with excellent accessibility features, such as:

- Accessible vehicles with wheelchair lifts or ramps
- Accessible attractions with flat or ramped entrances
- Accessible bathrooms with wide doors for wheelchairs
- Step-free routes that avoid steps, stairs, and curbs
- Experienced local independent operators familiar with accessibility needs

AUTISM & DEVELOPMENTAL DISABILITY ACCOMMODATIONS
Royal Caribbean offers a friendly environment for families living with autism, Down syndrome and other developmental disabilities. This includes sensory-friendly films and toys, dietary menu options, and overall autism-friendly training for Adventure Ocean staff and more.

These products and services include:

- Priority check-in, boarding and departure
- Special dietary accommodations including gluten-free and dairy-free
- Adventure Ocean flexible grouping by ability for children 3 to 11 years old
- Pagers/phones for parents of children in the Adventure Ocean program while signed into their care

VISUAL & HEARING DISABILITIES
Royal Caribbean’s goal is that all guests enjoy their cruise vacation to the fullest. They’re determined to make the cruising experience as convenient and enjoyable as possible for guests who are blind or have low vision, and guests who are deaf or hard of hearing. Their ships incorporate Braille in public areas and elevators, and they also offer large-print menus, braille signage throughout ships, and orientation tours. Service animals are welcomed onboard, too. Royal Caribbean also offers a portable kit for your stateroom, teletypewriters for stateroom, amplified telephones, assistive listening systems in theatres, close-captioned televisions, and sign language interpreting services.

Royal Caribbean has always believed that discovering and exploring the world around us is something that everyone should be able to enjoy, and over the years they’ve been an industry leader in providing the finest cruise vacation experience for all of their guests. Though Royal Caribbean doesn’t require information about the type or extent of your disability, it is in your best interest to share any specific requirements you may have with your AAA Travel Professional as soon as possible so they can help guarantee availability of equipment or services you may need.

Every year, thousands of guests with disabilities and special needs sail on Royal Caribbean International. Wherever their ships can go, you can, too – on a cruise designed to wow and accommodate you!

I recently made my annual Disney trip to enjoy Halloween time at Disneyland. I highly recommend attending Mickey’s Halloween Party! Those visiting the park dress up as their favorite Disney character and trick-or-treat their way through the park and ride with very limited wait times. I loved the Halloween-themed parade which featured the Headless Horseman making his way down Main Street. There is something magical about holiday-themed vacations and special interest travel. I would highly recommend it!
